

COVID-19 Data for 2021

Ferry, Pend Oreille, and
Stevens Counties

Data Notes

COVID-19 At Home Tests

- Toward the end of 2021, COVID-19 rapid antigen at-home tests became available in the tri county region. The Northeast Tri County Health District (NETCHD) followed suit with the Washington State Department of Health and included the at-home tests in the “New Cases by Month” graphs, but not within any other graphs since these at-home test results were not considered confirmatory. Many home tests were distributed and test result reporting was not required, so only those reported to NETCHD were included in the graphs.

2020 Cases

- Following the surge of cases in late 2020, some individuals who tested positive in 2020 were reported to NETCHD in early 2021. These individuals were included in all 2021 graphs.

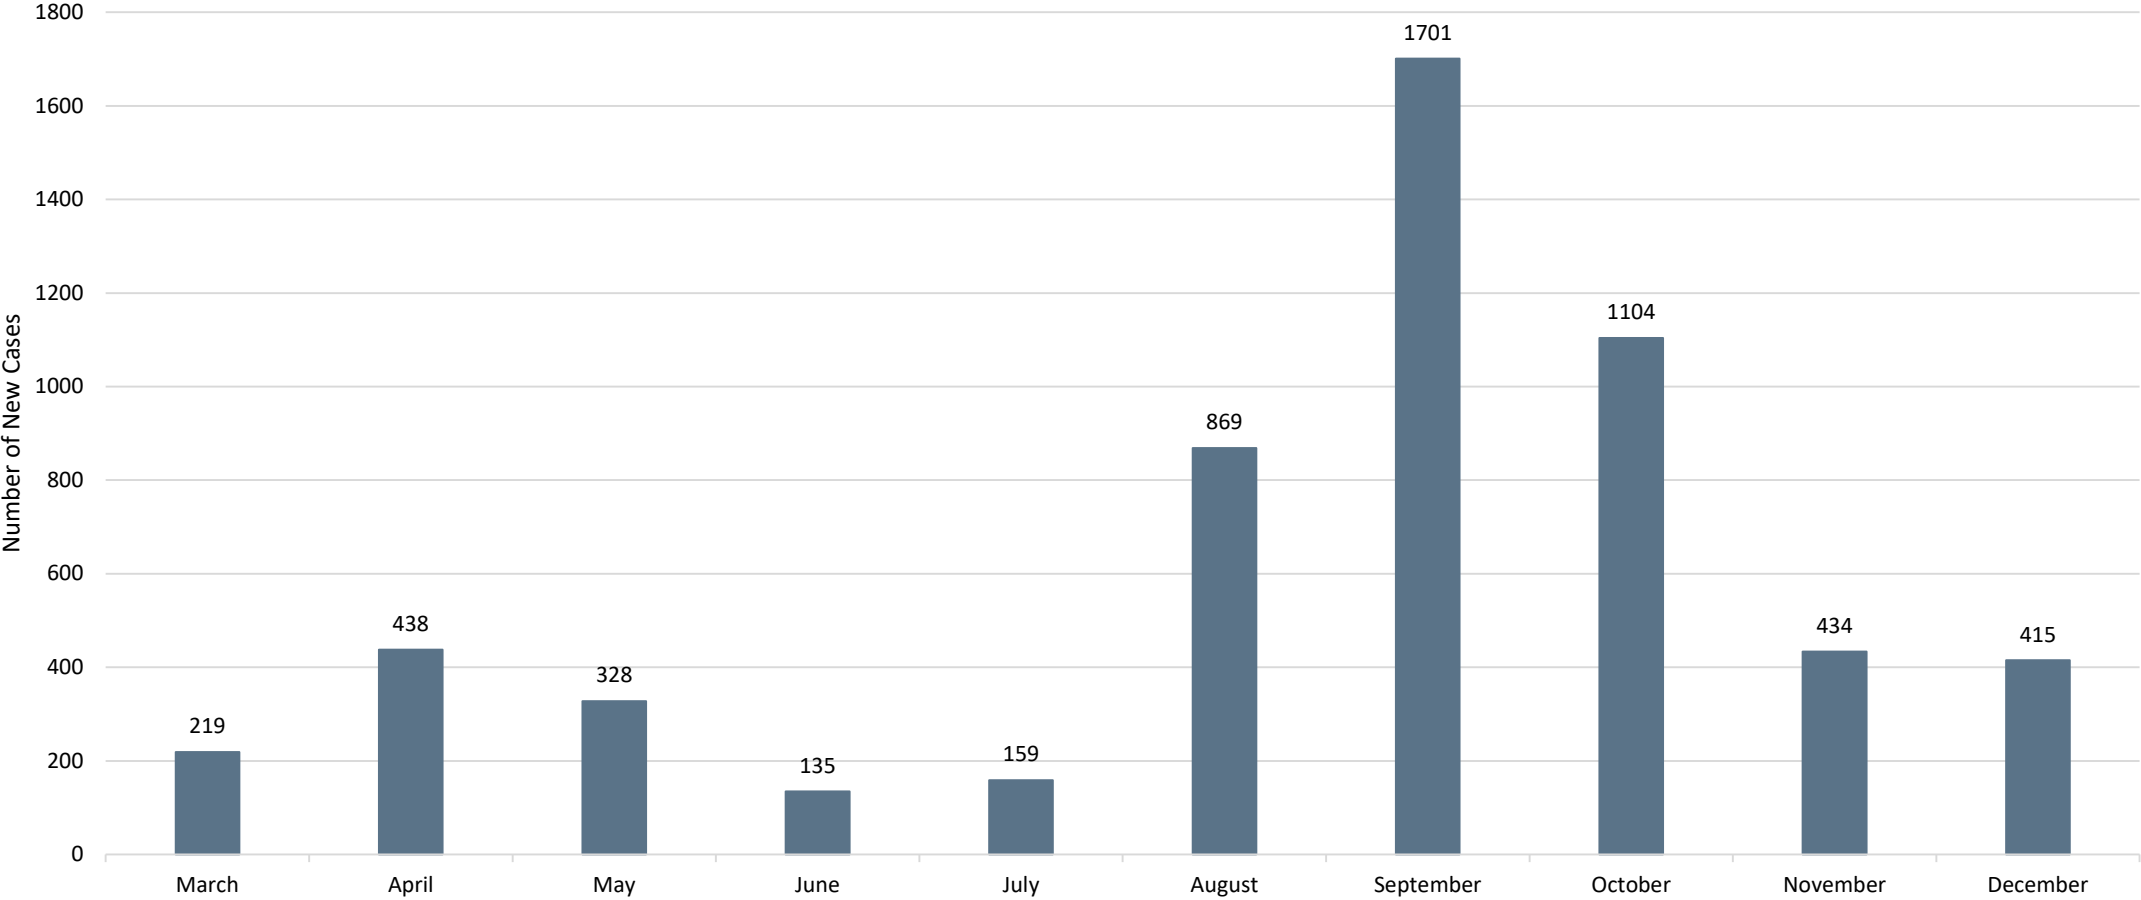

Reinfections

- Classifying individuals as reinfections is difficult, and NETCHD only identified people who were reinfected when both their original infection and their second infection were diagnosed by a COVID-19 test and reported to NETCHD. If a person had two distinct positive test results and both were reported to NETCHD in 2021, the person was included once in the graphs. If a person had a positive test result in 2020 and 2021 and both results were reported to NETCHD, these people were included in the 2020 graphs but not any 2021 graphs.
